

Diamond Butterfly Flutters into Charterhouse

A divine little brooch, in the form of a butterfly, is estimated to sell for £1,500 - £2,500 in the Charterhouse specialist auction of jewellery, silver and watches on Thursday 1st August.

“It is a sweet looking brooch which has survived over 100 years in wonderful condition, complete with antennae,” commented Richard Bromell.

Naturalistically modelled, the butterfly has a thorax made from a single diamond weighing over 1.5ct, an abdomen made from a large sapphire and diamond wings set with little rubies.
