A large collection of modern commemorative coins, from a deceased estate in Horsham, West Sussex, has been consigned to the Charterhouse specialist auction of coins, stamps, medals and militaria on Thursday 27th February in Sherborne.

“Mostly issued by The Royal Mint the coins date to the last 40 years. They come with their respective plastic cases, boxes and associated paperwork and are ready to be enjoyed by the next collectors,” commented Richard Bromell.

There is a large variety of silver and cupro-nickel coins ranging from year proof coins sets to Lord of the Rings of Rings commemorative coins, with the collection estimated to sell for over £3,000.
