

Lifetime Collection Comes to Charterhouse

A lifetime collection of automobilia and enamel signs, amassed by the late Nick Baldwin, are being sold by Charterhouse in Sherborne in their specialist Automobilia auction on 25th September.

“This is the largest single owner collection of automobilia I have had the pleasure to auction in nearly 40 years,” commented Richard Bromell. “From car mascots to enamel signs, to vintage car lamps there is something for everyone with it all being sold without reserve.”

Nick Baldwin, who lived on the Somerset/Devon border, was a leading motoring historian, journalist, author and an avid collector who sadly passed away earlier this year. His vast collection totals over 200 amazing lots and is estimated to sell for £25,000-£30,000 at the auction.
